The Judicial Sales Corp. (TJSC), a subsidiary of Attorneys' Title Guaranty Fund, Inc. (ATG), has named a new president and CEO.

TJSC said Pamela Murphy-Boylan has been named president and CEO. She replaces Nancy Vallone, who led TJSC from its founding in 1991 until her retirement earlier this year.

"Pam's expertise and oversight will be of great value to the already-strong team at The Judicial Sales Corporation," ATG President and CEO Peter Birnbaum said in a release. "We are confident Pam will continue the legacy of hard work, professional responsibility, and good judgment that her predecessor was known for, as well as build for a strong future. We look forward to her leadership."

Murphy-Boylan has 25 years of experience in the mortgage servicing, title and foreclosure industries. The company said she is an expert in Illinois foreclosure, REO and title practices.

"I'm driven by analytics," Murphy-Boylan said. "We collect and use data not only to improve processes and timelines, but also to project the needs of the business from a resource and capacity perspective so we can take care of our customers and our staff."

TJSC provides services to foreclosing plaintiffs and their attorneys when a judicial sale is ordered in the course of a mortgage foreclosure action.
